Profile

I am a female artist, painter, photographer and migrant who has lived in Paris since 2017. I am Peruvian, half Italian. Before my arrival in Paris I lived all my life in Lima, the capital of Peru, my hometown, dotted with a magical realism rooted in all its inhabitants. Surreal and magical, beautiful in its own way, but extremely violent, elitist, male chauvinist, racist and conservative. I grew up with conflicting feelings towards my homeland, and with the persistent need to forge my identity on my own terms. This explains the common thread of my work: the identity, and how it's constantly constructed, deconstructed and transformed.
